SOUTHERN SOCIETY BALL.

The annual ball given by the Southern Relief Society of Washington was beld at National Rifles Armory last night. A wonderful throng was swayed by the music of the dance. From early in the evening till early this morning crowds came, and danced and went During the ball a thousand persons glided over the polished floor, obedient to music that by turn was soothing and stirring.
The President of the United States had promised to attend, and this, added to the worthy object of the ball, attracted a vast crowd. Late in the evening it was announced that President McKinley, having been detained by reason of the dinner to the Supreme Court, would not be present. This was a disappointment, but the merry-mak-

The great hall glowed with red. The rich, warm glare was varied with green and white. The background of the stage was draped in crimson and the ceiling above the stage was veiled in the same color. Small groves of palms and giant ferns grew on each side of the stage and here and there woven into the red were artistic tangles of vines. At either sid-of the broad stairway leading to the platform was a towering palm that tood like a sentine there. Above these plants swung an American flag. The central chandeliers were hooded with thin red cloth and entwined with ivy and laurel. Across the ceiling, and half biding it, were fresh and clinging vines. The angle of the ceiling and side-walls was filled with evergreens. Scarlet curtains, tied with mammoth bows of white tulle, closed the windows, the sills of which were banked with potted plants. The clusters of side lights sparkled under filmy shrouds of red and green. The balcony at the north end of the ball was decorated in the prevailing colors, and there, Shroeder's Band, concealed behind a hedge of green, furnished the rhythm to which hundreds of dainty slippered feet kept

In expectation of the arrival of Presi dent McKinley, the receiving party took station on the stage and remained among the palms till a late hour.

The ladies of the society ed by the members of the Confederate Veterans' Association.

The decorations in the supper room were lavish and gay. A score of tables, white as untrodden snow, were ranged about the room. Silver and china glittered in the electric light. Vines, fresh gathered from their woodland home, climbed in picturesque confusion acro-s the spotless claths. Each table bore a floral centerpiece. Roses, lilies, and carnations did decorative duty.

Between the tables moved pretty girls, radiant in festival smiles and robed in gowns that seemed to have been woven in fairies' looms. These dainty creatures carried trays freighted with sweets and other things that are good to eat. They worked for the cause of charity, and they worked well and hard Grave matrons, looking young again because of their happiness in doing deeds of love, jostled to and fro. They wore white cals and white aprons and some of them wore white hair. But the eyes of all were bright and the cheeks of all were rosy. Around the tables sat a host of parti-clad people, who ate because of the good it did them and the good that it did others. They ate that others might eat. The proceeds of that charity feast will carry hearty cheer and new hope into many cheerless homes, and will kindle fires on dark hearths. The supper room was a favorite place with those who rested from the dance. The empalmed corners of the room were filled with groups of animated, chatting people. There was a merry chorus of happy converse, clanking cutlery, and rattling crockery. Everybody looked happy, everybody was happy.

KNOCK ON ST. PETER'S DOOR .- The celebration of a universal jubilee for 1900 has been decreed by the Pope to mark the coming of the sacred year. Great plans are being made for a wonderful ceremony in the Vatican, to begin on Christmas Day of 1899. On that day a stately procession will leave the Vatican and march to the vestibule of St. Peter's Church. There the procession will pause, and the Pope, descendfrom the Sedia Gestatoria, will strike the sacred door of the basilica thrice with a hammer. The door wil open to the knocks and the procession will enter the church with the Pope a its head, holding a cross in his right hand and a candle in his left hand. From Christmas Day until New Year's Day the door will remain open. The Vatican authorities are preparing a programme to make the celebration the grandest religious ceremony of the Story of a Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worse form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich', tells how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters, she is wonderfully im-proved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleep-lessness, melaucholy, headache, back-ache, fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle working machine is a godsend to weak, sickly, run down people. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50 cts. Sold by E. L. Allen and E S. Lead-beater & Sons, druggists.

In a recent letter from Washington, D. C., to an old friend, Major G. A. Studer, for twenty years United States Consul at Singapore, says: "While at Des Moines I became acquainted with a liniment known as Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which I found excellent against rheumatism as well as egainst soreness of the throat and chest (giving me much easier breathing). I had a touch of pneumonia early this week, and two applications freely applied to the throat and chest relieved me of it at once. I would not do without it for anything." For sale by J. H.
